“ Growing up my mother Susan would always tell stories to my brothers Thomas, Joseph, and myself. When she would work her way around to the stories about my grandfather Lum and great uncle Abner, they transformed into larger than life stories about road trips out west to California or flipping used cars for a quick profit. Abner was always full of life and showing off his million dollar smile at the family reunions. You'll be in our prayers

We knew Al through his living at Mrs Hazel's Boarding House when Al first became a highway patrol employee and he and Fred both stayed at Mrs Hazel's. He was a fine friend and a gentleman. He will be missed.

Abner Talley was indeed a good man. Anytime I had a plumbing or electrical problem, all I had to do was call Abner. He never wanted to charge what a job was worth. If it had not been for him, I might not have had three of my outbuildings. When I could not find anybody interested or I could afford to put my dogtrot house back together, he volunteered. He had his twin brother come down from Salem to help him, and it was a spectacle to see Abner on the steep roof with a rope tied around his waist and his brother on the ground anchoring the other end of the rope so Abner wouldn't break his neck if he fell. Thanks to him, my family and friends have enjoyed countless hours on the dogtrot porches. He had also done several things for me at the Bonham House and never charged.

Abner was also a compassionate man. When my aunt and uncle were pretty much housebound, they would call on Abner to do a few things, and he didn't want to take any pay when my aunt insisted. He told me to just tell them I had paid him.

As I sit at my kitchen table to write this and look out in my backyard, I see his handiwork everywhere.

Rest in peace my old friend.
