“ RIP BJ, It's Scott. You are finally free of any pain, I prayed to God so many times to swap my genes with yours and he wouldn't do it, I'm not questioning him, he just wouldn't do it. I loved you for so long, from the very 1st time I laid eyes on you and still do and this hurts so much. I wish your family all the best through this time, I always wanted to be such a big part of it and I know I tried too hard. I laid down in the bed of my truck today, tears rolling down my face, I wiped my eyes and looked into the sky, the wind started moving the leaves on the tree limbs and I hoped it was you flying by letting me know, it's ok. I need to be quite now, you know I have a hard time doing that sometimes and sometimes, too quite. I love you so much BJ, still..... Scott
