“ Catherine and John are my second parents. I grew up next door to them in Hanahan. Catherine taught me about gardening, cross-stitching, and embroidery. While I never mastered any of them she has a cross-stitch I did as a teenager still hanging in her home. I think of her every day I work in the garden and I remember the names of plants she taught me. She and John even taught me to water ski behind their pontoon boat on Lake Murray. That I will never sit and talk with Catherine again is sad, but I will always have the lessons and memories that she and John gave me. They are good people and I try to be just like them. I love you both.
